Worth Having? Worth Buying
More Purity Coming
Mr. Mustapha Kemal
Will You Fight Him?
—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1920.)

Universal Service announces that the fund to make General Wood President amounts thus far to two millions. Mr. Procter, head of the Wood political organization, says ingenuously, "The men that contribute large sums do not like to have their names known."

Why not? Is it not a virtuous thing to spend your money, your half million, or your quarter of a million to transform a general of transcendant political genius into a President?

Why are they ashamed of their effort to make General Wood President? What promises were made when the large checks were drawn? Were those promises of a kind that the check givers would not like to have published?

And how much chance do you think General Wood has of being nominated for the Presidency of the United States, now that the people know that while he was only just "warming up" it seemed worth while to "the right people" to scrape together two million to start him.

The people are fools or the men that supplied the two-million—and the rest of the pile—have wasted their money.

"It hath not yet been shown what we shall be." If you doubt it ask William Jennings Bryan. We thought we were fairly pure, what with the Mann act, highly beneficial to morals and to blackmailers, and what with the prohibition act. But from Mr. Bryan you learn that we have only started. There is to be a "single standard for both sexes" law.

Whoever tries any double standard experiment will be dragged to the police station as though he were nothing better than an immoral woman.

Not only that, says Mr. Bryan, "It is to be written into our Constitution."

Before they finish that will be a fat Constitution.

You may live to see your Constitution a sort of a literary areopagus, with Bryan or some other super-virtuous one chief areopagite. You may even see the 1930 areopagite putting his son in jail for dancing the wrong kind of a "jazz," as the ancient areopagite put his son to death for plucking out the eyes of a sparrow.

Read part of a cable from Paris to the New York Times. It tells how anxious Europe is that the United States should accept the mandate for Armenia and continues "to have American troops put Mustapha Kemal out of what President Wilson regards as the property of Armenia, would do much to discredit the Nationalist leader, who threatens to make so much trouble for the British and French as well as Italian and Greek interests in enforcing the treaty."

Wouldn't you like to have your son conscripted to be sent abroad to put Mustapha Kemal out of what President Wilson regards as the property of Armenia?

Isn't it your heart's desire that young men here be conscripted to "save British, French, as well as Italians and Greeks" from trouble in enforcing their treaty?

Could you imagine any man, partly sane, demanding that young men of this country contract disease and be shot to dispose of Mr. Mustapha Kemal?

Let us first put our own Mustapha Kemal, whose other name is profiteering, out of our territory. France, England, Italy and Greece may do their own worrying about Armenia.

If you want a war with Russia you can get it with an Armenian or Turkish mandate. Europe knows it. Read a little more of the Times dispatch:

"To have an American military barrier against the entrance of the Bolsheviki into Turkey is a thing much to be desired by the Allies, and to have American ability and money make a stable state out of the unstable structure the Allies erected, would be not only to the interest of Armenia, but of all the nations interested in Turkey."

What do you think of "Republican leaders," names not given, who tell the New York Times that disclosures about the campaign fund of two million for Wood, etc., endanger Hiram Johnson's chances?"

Why should those revelations injure Hiram Johnson? The answer is simple. Senator Borah, friend of Hiram, both radicals and representative of the people, is the man that started the investigation of campaign funds.

The "Republican leaders" say the revelations will hurt the Republican party. And the Republican party, if you please, will get even by rejecting Johnson.

In other words, because Johnson has a friend who brings out the truth about efforts to buy the Presidency, Johnson will be defeated for the nomination.

That may be the idea of some "Republican leaders" belonging to the gang that think what is worth having is worth buying. But it does not apply to twenty million voters in this country that would vote for Johnson if they had a chance.

Walsh Predicts Nation-Wide Appeal Will Cause Congress to Act Within a Month

Washington, D. C., May 28—Congressman Madden of Illinois, chairman of the sub-committee of the House Committee on Postal Affairs, which conducted an investigation into the need of higher wages for postoffice clerks and carriers, announced today that the report of that committee was not as yet completed. "Tabulations are delaying the report," said the Congressman, "but we hope to have it ready by the last of next week. It will surely be completed and presented to Congress before adjournment."

The nation-wide demand for wage increases for postal employes, revived by the Boston American and other Hearst newspapers, will result in satisfactory adjustments within four weeks, according to Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts.

Senator Walsh, who is a member of the Committee on Postoffices, further stated that there has never been any doubt in the minds of a majority of the Senate as to the justice of the demands.

The Senator's statements, contained in an open letter to the American, concluded with the assurance that he is working unremittingly for quick action on the matter, and that the agitation has finally impressed Congress.

Congressman John Jacob Rogers of Lowell, representing the Fifth Congressional District, stated that he also was making efforts to expedite the action of the postal commission, and Congressman Allen T. Treadway

WOMAN BEATEN WHILE ASLEEP

Assailant of South End Lodging House Keeper Escaped Through Window

Mrs. Sarah McCadan, fifty-year-old lodging house proprietor at No. 80 Worcester street, South End, was beaten over the head with a blunt instrument, wielded by an unidentified man while asleep in a basement room in her home early today.

Frightened by the woman's screams, her assailant escaped through a window just as her sixteen-year-old daughter Catherine rushed into the room.

The theory that the man may have been the escaped negro convict, Ward, was not borne out by the girl, who saw only his back, and was unable to furnish a complete description.

The police, who were notified, searched the neighborhood, but were unable to find any trace of the fugitive.

According to the story told by Catherine McCadan, she was awakened by the screams of her mother, who slept in the next room in the basement of the lodging house. The girl said that as she ran into the room a slim man, about five feet seven inches tall, wearing a dark gray suit and dark cap, was climbing through the window.

LAY CRIME TO ESCAPED CONVICTS

Clothing and Revolvers Are Stolen From Store Near Charlestown Prison

Convicts Barney, Manster and Ward are believed by the police to be the men who early today broke into the Thompson Square Loan Company store in Charlestown and made off with clothing and easily convertible jewelry worth $1,000.

Investigation showed that aside from the clothing, seven automatic revolvers, a quantity of ammunition, several flashlights and some black traveling bags were taken.

The pawnshop is only 200 yards from Charlestown prison and a maze of old buildings lies between.

The authorities believe the fugitives have been in hiding among these rookeries since their escape, awaiting an opportunity to steal street clothes in which to get away.

If this is true, the men are now at large in Boston and seeking some of the many haunts which have been under surveillance since Wednesday morning.

Great daring was exhibited in the break into the pawnshop, which is located at Austin and Main streets, Charlestown, but the job was evidently done by men without the usual burglars' tools. This strengthens the police theory that Barney and his confederates were the midnight visitors.

Supporting this view is the fact that clothing enough for three men was selected with care. The jewelry and other property stolen was such as could be easily converted into cash.

The theory that the three jail breakers have been in hiding in the

The "Red Book" will contain dramatic descriptions of alleged British atrocities and other cruelties inflicted on the Irish people.

"This 'Red Book' will startle the American people into a realization of conditions in Ireland as they actually exist," said de Valera.

The victim was fourteen-year-old Esther Olsen of Norwood avenue. She alleges she was approached by the woman on Boardman avenue, near the Essex woods, and asked to go for a ride in an automobile which had stopped some distance away.

When the girl refused and started to run, the stranger followed her, seizing her by the hair, the woman produced scissors from a belt around her waist and clipped it close to the head. She disappeared in the machine.

BELL-ANS FOR INDIGESTION

DAVID I. WALSH, U. S. Senator from Massachusetts:

There never has been any doubt in the minds of fair, logical thinking men in the Senate—and they constitute a majority—as to the justice and merit of the postal employes' demands and I regret most deeply that the various problems of international magnitude have apparently obscured the due consideration of this question.

In March, 1919, before I became a member of the Senate, a joint committee was named by Congress to reclassify and readjust postal employes' salaries. Fifteen months have elapsed and no report has been forthcoming, every attempt made to increase salaries has been held up by lack of information which the committee was instructed to furnish Congress.

DELAY LAMENTABLE.

In my opinion, the work of this committee could and should have been done in less than three months, and it is to the discredit of our capacity and efficiency to grapple with a simple problem of this kind that a satisfactory solution and report was not made long ago.

While wages have been increased in every other field of our industrial and political life, it is most lamentable indeed that no action has been taken in behalf of such faithful public servants as these making up the personnel of the Postal Department.

They are men who have willingly given meritorious service, even when penalized by low wages. How they have managed to struggle through the recent period of high prices is hard to imagine, and it is no reflection of credit upon the thoughtfulness of the parties responsible for the pitiably inadequate wages that they were obliged to do so.

CONGRESS STIRRED TO ACTION.

Last Fall, when the Committee on Postoffices, of which I am a member, voted small temporary increases to the men pending the report of the special joint committee, I could not agree that the wage advances were large enough to meet the inflated living costs of the time, and with two associates I felt bound to offer a report wherein I advocated more liberal increases.

Recent public agitation, coming from the postal employes themselves and from the public spirited business men of the nation, has brought the matter forcibly to the attention of Congress during the past few weeks.

In a speech delivered in the Senate May 18, 1920, I said in part: "What satisfactory excuse can be made to the government postal employes, the justice of whose claims for a wage increase is everywhere agreed, for the failure of a committee of this body to make a report on the investigation progress for over a year on the matter of salary adjustment? What Senator here can tell those employes when this report will be made and when action will be taken?"

At this point I was interrupted by a member of the committee now considering what wages will be paid, and I was assured that every possible haste will be taken in the matter of bringing about an equitable readjustment of wages.

On several occasions since that time other Senators have urged from the floor of the Senate that every possible measure be adopted to make substantial advances in the postal wages.

EXPECTS QUICK RESULTS.

It is my belief, therefore, that the postal men and those interested in the realization of their admittedly just claims can feel assured that very shortly the question of wages will be satisfactorily adjusted.

In view of the fact that the committee charged with settling postal wages has received thousands of protests from all over the country and has been urged from the floor of the Senate to make their decision, it seems likely that within the next four weeks there will be increases granted these employes, and in my opinion no action can be quick enough to compensate these men for their faithful service given so cheerfully and patiently in the face of trying circumstances. If necessary I most emphatically shall again give my voice and my vote that the quickest settlement may be obtained.

I repeat, the agitation of this subject has finally impressed Congress, and the day is not far distant when a very substantial increase will be granted our postal employes.

JOHN J. ROGERS, Congressman Fifth Massachusetts District:

I have been making every effort to expedite action by the Postal Commission, which is, of course, key to the situation. I am confident that Congress stands ready to act promptly when given the opportunity. There is full realization of the needs of the postal employes. Senator Sterling, ranking member of Postal Commission, officially informed the Senate, Monday, that if was his hope and expectation that the report will be presented to the Senate and House during the present week. I oppose adjournment of Congress without action on this report.

ALLEN T. TREADWAY, Congressman First Massachusetts District:

I have always favored increased salaries for postal employes. They thoroughly understand my position.

Employes of the postal service in Greater Boston find their present salaries so utterly inadequate to meet the cost of supporting their wives and children that many of them are forced to seek additional employment.

This means that after the exacting day's work of correctly handling the enormous volume of mail which floods the Boston offices, the time which should be devoted to their home or to recreation, is spent in attempting to earn enough to purchase the actual necessities of life.

And this situation exists among the employes of the United States government, the richest government in the world, and the government which is now discussing a 100 per cent. reduction in first class mailing rates.

One clerk, employed at the Boston office, who goes on duty at noon and works until late in the evening, spends his morning as a gardener. Another is an insurance agent, another a salesman of dyestuffs. The hours during which employes of private concerns are able to rest and enjoy some of the leisure necessary to efficient work are occupied by the workers for the Postoffice Department of the United States in striving by extra work to make their meagre wages equal their expenses.

In fact, the wives of some of the men have been forced to seek employment in order to eke out the few dollars paid by the government to men who have for years been faithfully and steadily engaged in the delivery of the mails.

A large proportion of the men connected with the Boston postoffice have such hours that at no time are they through for the day until 7 p. m. This force is detailed to the same shift at all times. In consequence of this arrangement, they are unable to see their younger children, who are in bed by the time they reach home; they are obliged to eat warmed-over suppers; and if they wish to attend the theatre they are compelled to go directly from their work, without an opportunity to go home for their supper.

During the railroad express strike, and other labor troubles, so much overtime was the rule that men engaged in other work to make both ends meet, were forced to give up this extra employment. This worked positive hardship on the families of many clerks and carriers, who were unable to subsist in comfort on their slim wages.

Long periods of overtime at the difficult work of handling the mail are no uncommon occurrence. In fact, under present conditions, they are almost the rule rather than the exception. For men cannot be secured to accept positions in the postal service, when they can obtain better wages at unskilled work.

The most recent freight embargo, which lasted for several weeks, furnished an example of this overwork. At the time of that trouble, the Boston offices were swamped with mail, and the carriers were burdened with parcel post bundles which would otherwise have been sent by express.

PETITION TO CONGRESS

To the Congress of the United States:

I appeal to the members of Congress to use their influence in securing the passage of legislation which will provide a suitable, living wage for the employes of the postal service.

I ask that some action be taken to prevent the continued and increasing number of resignations of highly-trained, capable and efficient employes, who are forced to seek other lines of business, with a consequent impairment of the postal service.

I appeal to Congress for immediate action, on the part of two hundred and fifty thousand postal employes, in order to save the postal service from complete collapse.

AN ODE TO FILENE'S BASEMENT.—

Oh, yes, "I'm set" for vacation time
As the host months draw quite near;
I've got that Palm Beach suit, you know,
That I bought at FILENE'S last year.

And those whose I bought in the basement
Are good for a few years more—
And the hats and socks and neckties, too,
Are as good as the day before.

But you know it's become a habit with me,
Just every day in the week,
To slide around FILENE'S Basement store
To have a look—to admire—then speak.

For though I'm not always in need
The bargains there are such a treat,
From hats, shirts and underwear, neckties and shoes,
And a suit—to top you from head to feet.

And it's true—When my wife has a growth on
And she's weary, tired and blue,
I give her a tea-pot—to FILENE'S she goes;
And mum, what that tea-shot can do!

She'll bring something home for the baby,
And a couple of skirts for dad—
And stick marks she's needed for many weeks;
That cheers her and makes her feel glad.

Just Thursday she brought home a pipe for me,
My corncob has grown pretty stingy,
And when she said she got it for 23 cents
I thought somebody must have been wrong.

But I went in myself—just to see if 'twas true
And I landed after a brief tramp,
To where they sold those nifty pipes—
JUST THE THING FOR CASEY.

Now wife and I are saving up
And when we get enough—enough

Today and Saturday—Event in Summer Waists

5000 Dainty White Waists

Organdie, Voile and Batiste, in Frilled and Roll Collar Models

The Story Briefly Told—Late Season, Cold Weather

IT IS rather hard to tell what can be done in the market until one tries. We knew that we could sell 5,000 or even 10,000 waists just at this time, in fine Organdie, Voile and Batiste in white, especially if they were made with the big frills and jabots or in the semi-tailored types with the wide roll collars with their picot and lace edges. We could get plenty of such waists, but would have to sell them at 3.50 to 4.00. But there is nothing like trying. We talked with five of the best makers of waists with whom we do much business, and told them we wanted to get together 5,000 waists to sell at 2.95. The backward season—the cold weather—had caused an accumulation not of five thousand but possibly of ten or fifteen thousand waists. We figured if we could secure from each dealer an average of one thousand waists it would give us our quantity. Selections were made and we said if we could buy the waists to sell at 2.95 we would take them. They demurred and wanted us to take some waists that would even up the lot in the way of prices. But we maintained our purpose was to buy them to sell for 2.95, and, as stated above, the backward season helped us, and they made the price. This is about the daintiest, crispest, freshest and most stylish lot of waists that we have offered at any price in such numbers, and can hardly last more than two days. Today and Saturday selling.

Remember these are not odd lots of waists; they are the choice of many thousands of waists made up for the Summer business. And we doubt if ever, even four or five years ago, better waists were sold for two dollars and ninety-five cents than in this sale.

BRITAIN ACCUSED OF 24,359 CRIMES AGAINST THE SINN FEIN

CHARGE IRISHMEN SLAIN, MISTREATED AND JAILED

"It will be a true account of the horrible sufferings inflicted upon the people of Ireland by the British in their efforts to rule the Irish nation against its will.

"It will be the Irish republic's greatest effort to smash the British gag-rule which has kept the outside world uninformed of its reign of terror in Ireland.

"'Let Erin alone,' said Geddes. No wonder the British want the world to turn away its eyes from Ireland. It is to the British the advice, 'Let Erin alone' should be given, and if they acted upon it, Ireland would be one of the happiest and most prosperous countries in the world."

The "Red Book" charges the British government and governmental officials with slaughter and murders in Ireland. It also sets forth that 2,162 Irishmen have been deported without charge by the British government; that 600 armed assaults have been committed in the name of the government and 19,423 police raids made on private dwellings without proper authority.

Statistics to be set forth in the "Red Book" charge that 6,157 Irish citizens have been executed under British rule in the last three years, of whom 2,010 have been committed to prison. Particular stress is laid on British proclamations, of which the book says there were 350. It terms these "proclamations of suppression."

"MURDERERS" NOT PUNISHED.

"Repeatedly coroners' juries found British government agents guilty of wilful murder," says the "Red Book." "But no action was ever taken against any of them.

"In the instance of the brutal slaying of Lord Mayor MacCurtain of Cork, the coroner's jury found Premier Lloyd George, Viscount French and other high authorities guilty of wilful murder.

Touching on imprisonment it says: "We can produce records of jails and insane asylums showing that members of the Irish republic were rendered insane by their treatment in British jails."

The book deals particularly with deportations. "From the viewpoint of England's strategists in Dublin Castle there has been one overwhelming reason why an Ireland that persisted to defy English government must be brought out in the open, facing machine guns unarmed—as were the Zulus and the Afghanistan people more recently," it continues.

"The reason was calmly stated by Lord French himself when he complained that the root of the Irish question today was the fact that there were 5,000,000 to 7,000,000 young men in the country who in normal times would have emigrated and that there would be no peace in the country until these young men were gotten out of it. Cromwell sent young Irish to the Barbodes; the government today seeks to revive Cromwellism on a larger scale.

WAR ON IRELAND.

"We have in French's candid statement, too, an unintentional admission of failure of British tactics in Ireland, for the first time since the earlier policy of confiscation and slaughter was changed to enforced emigration.

"That is why the signing of the armistice in Europe was the signal for war to begin in Ireland. Defiant young Ireland took up the challenge. They knew it was for the right of the Irish nation to live. They met the guerilla warfare opened on them. They met the test and even voted Irish republican members into office."

Touching on the events of May, 1918, when ninety-one men and women were deported to England without charges, the book says: "The story given the world was that some Sew Irish had been discovered in connection with the German plot and that the whole ninety-one were arrested to prevent them 'doing likewise.'

"The plain truth is that Sinn Fein party was giving every evidence of sweeping to victory at the general elections for which the campaign was then being waged. And in an effort to destroy that opposition, to frustrate the will of the Irish people, and to intimidate them into voting against Sinn Fein candidates, every outstanding party leader in the country, save three, and every county organizer was kidnaped and victimized in this farcically hideous plot."

The "Red Book" contains numerous tables of crimes and arrests. It says that the Sinn Fein accuse the British government of 24,359 crimes from murder, assault and raids to attacks on individuals and their property, while the British charge the republicans with 1,529 in the same period.

The book probably will not be published before the Fall, as the collaborators are gathering additional information.

CONVICTS WILL PUT UP FIGHT

Desperate and Must Be Captured, Warden Says in Warning to Public

wilderness of abandoned houses, barns and shanties near the prison received more credence than any other that has been brought forward since the escape. It would, if true, dispose of all speculation as to what the criminals did after they got out.

Police officials point out that the story of a waiting automobile has not been substantiated sufficiently, and that other theories are not well enough established to make the new version impossible.

WARNING BY WARDEN.

Warning was issued to the public today by Warden Shattuck that Manster, Barney and Ward are desperate men and will not be caught without a battle.

In an appeal for the aid of the public, he said: "They are a menace to the community. They must be caught as quickly as possible."

The three fugitives, who fled Charlestown prison early Wednesday in one of the most spectacular jail deliveries in a decade, are still in Boston, the police believe.

Investigation of the associations of Herman L. Barney and Harry A. Manster with the women who figures so prominently in their original trials has disclosed some interesting information, the police say.

Marion Grant O'Brien is alleged to have broken with Barney last January, since which time she had not visited him in his cell.

She is at the home of her mother on Kittredge street, Roslindale, and denied that she knew anything of Barney's latest exploit in jail breaking.

She also ridiculed the idea that Barney would come after her for aid.

"I've got him into trouble twice—he won't come to me now," said the girl.

A highly interesting situation has been revealed in the investigation of Harry A. Manster's relations with Mae Clark.

The girl was directly responsible for Manster's arrest charged with the murder of Patrolman Charles Heiser. Acting on information that she supplied, the police watched her room and captured the slayer.

Notwithstanding this, since Manster was convicted she became his best friend. She visited him in his cell, brought him such comforts as were permitted, and they were apparently on good terms.

Investigation of the young women friends of the both fugitives has led to nothing worth while, the police admit.

That Harry Manster always protested his innocence of the murder for which he was sentenced to life imprisonment, and that he thought himself entitled to liberty, was the statement of Attorney John W. Connelly, his counsel. Attorney Connelly said that fears that Manster might seek revenge on Joseph Mattey, the police officer who arrested him, were groundless, as the fugitive was not vindictive.

Prison officials today admitted not only had they ample warning of the intention of Manster, Barney and Ward to escape, but that they had such warning the night the flight was carried out.

The officials were simply outwitted by the convicts, Warden Shattuck said, particularly by the use of the "trusty," Dinneen.

While one guard has been dismissed for negligence, Warden Shattuck said there was absolutely no connivance within the prison.

Onions Fall Into Hands of Profiteers

The onion, comrade of hamburger steak and other coveted dishes, is the latest commodity to fall into the clutches of the food profiteer—and right here in Boston. One hundred per cent. profit and more is being made. This time the retailer cannot pass the blame along. Quotations on Bermudas at the Boston Fruit and Produce Exchange range from $1.50 to $2.25 a crate, of from 45 to 48 pounds. Figured at the minimum, the $1.50 onions cost a fraction more than three cents a pound, while the highest priced ones cost exactly five cents.

But dealers are selling them at ten cents per pound.

Texas white onions on which the maximum quotation is $2 a crate, are on sale for fifteen cents per pound.

Some dealers sell three pounds for twenty-five cents.

Reports that Barney, Ward or Manster were seen in various parts of the city were frequent today. Investigation showed that the reports were without foundation.

The authorities do not expect any of the three to be so rash as to leave cover, and are working on the theory that it is up to them to find the hiding place of the fugitives before they break through the police ring and get away to South America.

THE WOMAN IN THE CASE.

Loves of the underworld began today to break through the veil of mystery which for sixty hours has shrouded the escape of Barney and Manster.

Barney has broken with Marion O'Brien. Manster has forgiven the girl who "turned him up" to the police. Barney acted through jealousy, Manster forgave his "girl" through pity.

Marion O'Brien today confirmed her break with Barney last January. She visited him at the prison January 2. Barney, incensed with jealousy, told her he was through with her.

Manster, not long after, asked Warden Shattuck to send Mae Clark [illegible] of his prison account to a St. Stephen street address. Later he wrote her at "General Delivery," Boston postoffice.

A persistent story that a woman was seen acting suspiciously outside the prison walls several nights previous to the escape caused the police to redouble their efforts to locate Mae Clark.

The young woman disappeared from her Back Bay address shortly before the escape of the convicts and has not been seen since.

At the time of his trial Manster was bitter toward this young woman. However, she visited him at the jail and convinced him that what she had done had been done unwittingly.

Several witnesses have told of seeing a girl acting suspiciously on Sutherford avenue, near the prison, before the escape and even on the night of the escape.

WOOD DENIES CURTAILING

American Woolen Co. Head Says Mills Close to Give Help Vacation Over Holidays

President William M. Wood of the American Woolen Company, today denied that the mills of his company are curtailing their output because of cancelled orders. He explained the closing of several of the company's mills in Lawrence until Tuesday morning as being a "not unusual thing to do."

"All things by their right name," said Mr. Wood when asked why the company was curtailing by closing the Lawrence mills. "We are not curtailing. We are simply closing down over the holiday to give our employees a chance to visit their friends and relatives. It is not an unusual thing for us to close down in this manner when a holiday comes on Monday.

"Many people believe the mills were ordered closed because of cancellation of orders and wonder why it is that they are closing, in view of the fact that leading manufacturers a short time ago said that the only way to reduce the high cost of living was through increased production," said the reporter.

"I don't know what others are doing," replied Mr. Wood, "but we are not curtailing. The cancellations are no more than in normal times before the war. We are not closing our mills because of cancellations. We do not anticipate a curtailment."

In Lynn four big manufacturers of cheap shoes were said to have received a million dollars of cancellations from Southern wholesalers and retailers who declared they could not pay the prices demanded.

Similar conditions were said to obtain in Haverhill, where one-third of the local shoe industry was said to be stationary as a result of cancelled orders. Manufacturers stated in several instances that their factories, shut down over the holiday, would not reopen for several weeks.

In Lawrence the Wood, Washington, Ayer and Prospect mills of the American Woolen Company will remain shut down until Tuesday morning. The Arlington mills are shutting down department by department. At Manchester, N. H., practically all of the shoe factories announced that they would partially suspend operations and run for the present on a 50 per cent. basis.

Firemen employed by the Globe Yard Mills and the Sanford Spinning Company at Fall River have refused the 15 per cent. advance in wages. They insist on an increase of 15 cents an hour.

Union crane men and electricians employed at the Lynn plant of the General Electric Company voted in favor of a strike.

Zimmerman Jury to Get Case Tomorrow

Springfield, May 28.—Peter Balkin, friend and counsellor of Jennie Zimmerman, on trial for the murder of her cousin, Dr. Henry Zimmerman, today repudiated estimony of several government witnesses to the effect that he had attempted to arrange a financial settlement for the accused girl, following her alleged betrayal.

He denied all of the allegations along this line made by Dr. Julius Cornell, brother-in-law of the murdered man, and corroborated by Isaac Silverman and Bernard Fellman, friends of the slain doctor.

CASE NEARING END.

He was again questioned as to his political affiliations. He admitted that he was a Socialist and that he joined the Communist party, but resigned as member only one week.

Dr. James E. Morrison, a Springfield physician, who attended Miss Zimmerman on several occasions, testified the girl admitted to him on one of her visits to his office that Dr. Zimmerman, her cousin, was responsible for her condition.

The case is expected to go to the jury early tomorrow forenoon. Judge Joseph P. Brown said that he would deliver his charge immediately after court convenes in the morning.

Antoine Silbert, government witness against Miss Zimmerman, expressed hostility to the girl during the trial and predicted that people would "take the law into their own hands" if they were not convicted, according to testimony of Mrs. Maude Aikers, a worker.

"CLAIM GIRL WAS HONORED.

She testified that Silbert said: "I she doesn't get a proper sentence fear there will be trouble."

Following Mrs. Aikers' testimony Mrs. Maude Oulmet was recalled. She testified that Silbert said Miss Zimmerman girl should be punished for killing her cousin, and he would be willing to do it himself.

Miss Minnie Brown of Boston was the next witness. She was formerly employed on a publication there, and said her interest in the case was to see justice done. Miss Brown told of a conversation with Mrs. Julius Cornell, brother-in-law of the murdered doctor.

She declared he said, "It is preposterous to think that Dr. Zimmerman had improper relations with this girl as he did, he honored her.

"I am a Socialist. So was he. I belong to a group of Socialists in this city who have it in for that girl as if the Socialists could get hold of her they would tear her to pieces. The girl is crazy. We were going to send her to Northampton, anyway."

"We offered Balkin $2500 to have Jennie drop the whole thing. Jennie has been telling lies. We can tell how lies ourselves. Ours will go before the jury."

TROOPS CALLED IN R. I. STRIKE RIOTS

tempted to bring strikebreakers into the mill of the National India Rubber Company, threats against the local police were heard.

Sheriff Cady then appealed to Governor Beeckman and Adjutant-General Charles W. Abbot was instructed to despatch the 4th Company Corps of Coast Artillery, and two troops of cavalry, which were hurried to Bristol.

The disorders occurred when detectives and policemen escorted loyal workers to the gates of the plant, where a strike has been in progress for three weeks.

As the workers appeared women sympathizers of the strikers threw snuff into their eyes. Detectives and police charged the crowd, missiles began to fly and shots were fired. The strikers and their sympathizers were driven away.

GIBBONS TO AID PILGRIM FETE

Cardinal Accepts Invitation to Become Member of Tercentenary Committee

Plymouth, May 28.—James F. McGrath, general counsellor of the National Tercentenary Committee, today received a letter from Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore, expressing his willingness to serve on the committee in arranging for the 300th anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims. The letter reads:

"I deem it an honor and privilege to be identified with a movement which did so much in finding a western empire, and I cheerfully accept your kind invitation to be a member of the Plymouth Tercentenary Committee."

The opening event will be on December 21, 1920, which will be Forefathers' Day, and Senator Lodge is to be the orator.

On July 4, 1921, the President of the United States is expected to deliver the chief address.

A $10,000 cup will be given to the winner of a 1,500-mile air race, and perhaps the most spectacular event of the whole celebration will be a pageant to cost $100,000.

PICKPOCKETS TO LOSE COURT "PRIVILEGES"

Providence, May 28.—Pickpockets arrested in Providence, will not be allowed special court arraignment as in the past, according to orders issued by the police today. Heretofore friends of pickpockets have been able to secure a judge as soon as their companion was arrested. Then after a special hearing he was allowed bail for a further hearing. So many of these criminals have jumped bail that the practice has been discontinued.

Medal for Hero's Father

A distinguished service cross will be pinned by General Edwards Tuesday at army headquarters upon Stuart C. Scott of No. 11A Wiggleworth street, Somerville, father of Private Albert E. Scott, Company H, 101st Infantry, who was killed in action near Trugny July 23, 1918.

GOMPERS HOPES TO AVERT FIGHT

Meets Union Leaders to Discuss Impending Struggle in New York

New York, May 28.—The real purpose of the coming of Samuel Gompers, who reached here today, is to postpone the battle between the local Merchants' Association and those labor unions which handle the commerce of the city. Ostensibly the labor leader came to debate with Governor Henry J. Allen of Kansas.

That the nearness of war between the unions and the interests affiliated with the Merchants' Association is the reason for Gompers' coming was substantiated by the men who met him on his arrival, and with whom he went into conference. They were Peter J. Brady, who spoke for labor at the Merchants' Association luncheon on Tuesday; William F. Kehoe, chairman of the Transportation District Council, and Hugh Frayne, in charge of the Federation's office in New York.

Frederick J. Koster, who broke the union control of labor in San Francisco, has been called here by the Merchants' Association, and his presence has aroused the fear that there will be serious consequences.

The cases of San Francisco and New York are peculiarly similar. It was the union handling of goods in transit at the waterfront and terminals that brought on the three-year struggle there, and it was an association of merchants that called Koster into the fight.

"I can use all three ovens and the broiler—at the same time."

"I HAVE a roast in the coal oven, bread in that gas oven at the left, and now that I've lighted the broiler flame, this right-hand oven will be hot enough for my cake. I couldn't do all this baking with any other stove.

"You'd hardly believe such a small range could have so much oven space—6½ square feet without the racks, or 13 square feet with them. And from end to end my stove measures only forty-three inches!

"THEN, in addition to the ovens, I can have nine kettles cooking all at once on the top, when I'm using both stoves—four on the coal griddles and five on the gas burners! Think how convenient that is when there's a big dinner to get—or at preserving time!

"Why, last summer I did an unbelievable amount of canning—all in one day—with this wonderful stove. While things that needed long cooking were simmering on the coal stove, I was canning the quickly cooked things on the gas.

"AND it's so nice to be able to use either stove separately. You know there's nothing like gas when you're in a hurry—and there are lots of times when a coal range is so much better.

"I discover new advantages in this Victory Crawford every day—it's come to be one of my most treasured possessions. Wait till you get one in your kitchen. Nothing could persuade you to part with it. It's a wonder."

LAUCK EXPOSES COAL PROFITS

Charges Operators Profiteered to Extent of Half Billion in Wartime Dealings

Washington, May 28.—Half a billion dollars marks the wartime profiteering toll exacted by bituminous coal operators, according to W. Jett Lauck, consulting economist for the seventeen railroad brotherhoods and unions in a survey of the bituminous coal industry submitted to the United States Railroad Labor Board and made public here today.

"With an average annual production for the three years 1916-17-18 of nearly 600,000,000 tons and an average excess profit per ton for the three years of more than 27 cents, it is apparent that coal operators gouged the consumers for an aggregate of half a billion dollars," declared Mr. Lauck.

"In other words, the profiteering of the bituminous coal operators was translated into a tax of approximately $25 on each family in the United States. And this accounts for an important factor in the high cost of living."

"The increase paid the labor required to produce a ton of coal," Mr. Lauck continued, "amounted to only 54 cents, while the operators' price was advanced $1.13, and the retail price by $2.15, or more than four times the increase in the cost of labor necessary to produce the coal.

"Less than one-fourth of the increase in the price of coal paid by the consumer was taken by labor."

Turning to the profits of specific companies, Mr. Lauck selected the Pittsburgh Coal Company, which was described by the operators at the hearings last Fall before the President's Coal Commission as thoroughly representative of the bituminous industry.

"This company," Mr. Lauck's report said, "showed average annual earnings for the years 1915-16-17 of approximately $2,000,000. In 1918 it made a clear profit of $7,000,000, while in 1917 the net income was $14,976,852, or seven times the average for the ante-bellum period."

CHARGE POLICEMAN ATTACKED PRISONER

Special Officer John A. Sullivan of the Lagrange street police station is charged with assault and battery on a prisoner in an application filed in Municipal Court today for his arrest. John W. Connelly, representing Hyman Colton, who was arrested in connection with the theft of $9,000 worth of leather from the firm of Bennett, Prince & Co., says in his application that Sullivan brutally beat Colton in the station house on the night of May 22. Dr. Harry Coburn and other persons at the Lagrange station will be called to testify.

FARMERS ASK RAIL CONTROL

Demand Plank Taxing Excessive Incomes Be Included in Platforms of Both Parties

By International News Service.

Washington, May 28.—A statement of policy endorsed by 750,000 farmers has been sent the Republican and Democratic National Committees, with the demand it be incorporated in the platforms of both parties, George P. Hampton, managing director of the Farmers' National Council, announced here today.

The main planks in the platform are:

Government ownership and control of the railroads; government ownership of the merchant marine; lasker control legislation; payment of the war debt by taxing war profits and excessive incomes; a tax on land and other natural resources held for speculation; a rapidly-progressing tax on the capital value of property with an exemption of $25,000, and legislation providing cheap and adequate credit for farmers.

ROXBURY STREETS IN "HORRIBLE CONDITION"

Satan's home is said to be paved with good intentions. So are Roxbury streets.

If you own an auto and are planning to take the children to the beach for the holiday to permit them to "bump-the-bumps," don't do it. Save your high-priced gasoline. Just go through a few Roxbury streets and the kiddies will get the same effect, thereby saving time and money.

The streets are so bad that the many drivers and teamsters are given a list of those they should avoid. This list contains most of the streets of the district. When one driver was asked by an American reporter what streets he considered in bad condition he laughed and said: "Ask me which ones are in good condition; that's easier to answer."

"IN HORRIBLE CONDITION."

F. W. Mendum, treasurer of the Grocers' Baking Company, in commenting on Roxbury street conditions, said: "The streets of Roxbury are in horrible condition. Anything that can be done to put them in proper condition will be welcomed by the merchants and manufacturers of this section."

At the risk of being accused of favoritism the American will mention a few where the great outdoor sport of "bump-the-bumps" is being indulged in daily by drivers of vehicles. Here they are—Smith street (paved 17 last fall), Ruggles street (repaired 7 last fall), Longwood avenue (main thoroughfare from Parker street to Coolidge Corner, Brookline), George, Dudley, Hampden, Clifton, Prentiss and Blue Hill avenue. There are many others but as columns can be written about the few mentioned we will confine this story to them.

Take Longwood avenue. It is a very important thoroughfare. Fronting upon it are a group of the most important public buildings in the city. These include Children's Hospital, Harvard Medical School, Harvard Dental School, Massachusetts College of Pharmacy and Angell Memorial Hospital for animals. The avenue is paved with what once were yellow bricks from Huntington to Longwood avenues.

BEFORE CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL.

This entire stretch is filled with large holes. Directly in front of the Children's Hospital are many of them. In approaching the hospital on either end one reads large signs erected by the city. The wording upon them is "Warning. Hospital; make no noise."

In front of the Harvard Medical School driveway there is a stretch of thirty feet where half of each brick has been ground away.

Probably the prize hole in the city is one located near the middle of St. Alphonsus street, opposite Lady of Perpetual Help parochial school, connted with Mission Church. This young cave is two and a half feet deep.

Smith street near Huntington avenue is in choice condition. If you contemplate buying shock absorbers for your car and the maker tells you they are the best on earth invite him to take you for a trial spin over Smith street to determine the truthfulness of his assertion.

The manner in which this street and Conant street were repaved was the subject of two reports by the Boston Finance Commission. The production of Francis P. Smith of New York, an expert on street construction, who examined these streets for Finance Commission, has apparently come true. Just after the asphalt was laid in the fall of 1919 Mr. Smith in a report to the commission said: "Such a pavement cannot give the service which should reasonably be expected of it and no amount of patching can ever convert it into a first-class job. It cannot be regarded as a first-class piece of pavement."

In connection with these Roxbury jobs, Guy C. Emerson, consulting engineer of the Finance Commission, reported: "The commissioner (street) should take means to insure competent inspection of bituminite pavements under whatever conditions they are laid. No inspector could be found on the work (in Roxbury)." He added: "From many cases that present one, it is apparent that some might be quoted in addition to the at least, of the inspectors assigned this work are negligent, or dishonest or both."

PRESBYTERIANS QUIT MOVEMENT

Withdrawal From Interchurch World Work Follows Indictment by Unitarians Here

Philadelphia, May 28.—The Interchurch World Movement, behind which John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has placed himself and, if necessary, all his millions, suffered a serious blow in the defection of the Presbyterian Church of the United States.

That church, through its general assembly, in session here, cut loose from the movement. The vote was unanimous.

Coming on the heels of the recent bitter indictment of the Interchurch movement by Unitarians meeting in Boston, the withdrawal of the Presbyterians caused interest to redound to national circles.

The Unitarians scored the Interchurch ideal as a narrow one because of its exclusion of certain churches.

Whether this charge figured in the withdrawal of the Presbyterians has not been disclosed.

While the church will continue its connection with the New Era movement until the next general assembly, the budget for that purpose was cut from $500,000 to $400,000.

"Reorganization along less expensive lines" was the reason assigned for the break with the Interchurch cause.

Those Pretty Teeth

Should Last a Lifetime—Save Them

All Statements Approved by High Dental Authorities

Millions of Teeth Now Glisten

You see them everywhere—teeth which everybody envies.

Ask the reason for them and the owners will say Pepsodent. The teeth are kept free from film.

See the results on your own teeth. Do what millions have done—send for this 10-Day Tube.

Look at your teeth now, then look in ten days. Let your mirror tell the story.

Don't wait longer. This question of cleaner, whiter, safer teeth is all-important to you.

Send for the free tube now.

Dental authorities now agree that the thing which ruins pretty teeth is film.

It is that viscous film, ever-present, ever-forming. You can feel it with your tongue. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays.

The tooth brush does not end it. The ordinary dentifrice does not dissolve it. So month after month it clings, and may do a ceaseless damage.

That is why brushed teeth discolor and decay. Tooth troubles are constantly increasing. People think they clean the teeth, but they leave this film. And teeth are ruined by it.

How Film Destroys

Film is what discolors—not the teeth. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Thus most tooth troubles are now traced to film.

These facts have long been known to dentists. Dental science long has sought a help. But the periodic dental cleaning seemed the only way to fight film and tartar.

Now science has found an efficient film combatant—one for daily use. Able authorities have proved it by convincing tests. Leading dentists everywhere are urging its adoption.

Now that method is embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. A 10-Day Tube is being sent to everyone who asks. Thus the facts have spread, until millions of teeth are now protected by it.

Now Pepsin is Applied

Pepsodent is based on pepsin, the digestant of albumin. The film is albuminous matter. The object of Pepsodent is to dissolve it, then to day by day combat it.

The way seems simple, but it long seemed barred. Pepsin must be activated, and the usual method is an acid harmful to the teeth.

But science has discovered a harmless activating method. Now pepsin in this new form, can be constantly applied. And, combined with other ingredients in Pepsodent, it has brought a new teeth-cleaning era.

Watch It for Ten Days

The results of Pepsodent are quick and evident. One cannot dispute them. And the book we send tells the reason for them.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the slimy film. See how the teeth whiten as the fixed film disappears.

Compare this new way with the old way by results. Then decide for yourself the best way to keep teeth whiter, safer and more sound. This ten-day test will point the way to life-long benefits.

TWO MORE RENT BILLS SIGNED

Governor Approves "Eminent Domain" and "Rights of Tenants" Measures

Governor Coolidge today signed two more of the five anti-rent profiteering bills drafted from the original Hays bill. Three of these five bills have now become law.

The texts of the bills signed today follow:

"To authorize cities and towns to provide shelter for their inhabitants in case of emergency.

"Section 1.—A city or town in which the Mayor or a majority of the Board of Selectmen proclaim that a public exigency or emergency or public distress exists because of an insufficient supply of shelter or available dwellings for its inhabitants, may acquire by purchase or take by right of eminent domain unimproved or improved real property in fee or for any less estate and improve or dispose of the same in such manner as to provide shelter for its inhabitants and to afford adequate relief in case of a public exigency or emergency or public distress as aforesaid.

"Section 2.—In case a city or town takes property hereunder by right of eminent domain and is unable to agree with the owners as to the damages to be paid therefor, the same shall be assessed as in the case of land taken for highway purposes, and shall be paid by the city or town.

"Section 3.—For the purposes of this act, a city or town may borrow such sums, in excess of the statutory limit of indebtedness, not exceeding 1 per cent. of its assessed valuation, and may issue therefor bonds or notes for periods not exceeding ten years, and otherwise subject to the provisions of chapter seven hundred and nineteen of the acts of nineteen hundred and thirteen, and the amendments thereof so far as the same are applicable.

"Section 4.—No city or town shall acquire by purchase or take by eminent domain under the provisions of this act unless purchase or taking is made prior to the first day of February in the year nineteen hundred and twenty-two.

"Section 5.—Any land taken or acquired by purchase under the provisions of this act shall be taken or acquired subject to the provisions of chapter two hundred and sixty-three of the general acts of nineteen hundred and fifteen and acts in amendment thereof, so far as applicable."

"An act to penalize violations of the rights of tenants.

"Section 1.—Any lessor of any building, or part thereof, who is required by the terms, expressed or implied, of any contract or lease to furnish water, heat, light, power, elevator service or telephone service to any occupant of said building who wilfully or intentionally fails to furnish such water, heat, light, power, elevator service or telephone service at any time when the same are necessary or customary to the proper or customary use of such building, or part thereof, or any lessor who wilfully and intentionally interferes with the quiet enjoyment of the leased premises by such occupant shall be punished by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars or by imprisonment for not more than six months.

"Section 2.—This act shall become null and void on the first day of February in the year nineteen hundred and twenty-two."

RICHARDS' BEQUESTS TO YOUNG WIFE SUSTAINED

The will of the late Edward E. Richards, a wealthy Brookline real estate operator, was sustained by order of Judge King after eight days of trial before a jury in the Suffolk Superior Court. The estate amounts to about $200,000. The case will now go to the full bench of the Supreme Court for the second time. It is understood, either on report of the justice or on exceptions of the contestants.

Mrs. Gladys B. Brackett of Roxbury and Mrs. Bertha E. Porter of Winthrop, daughters of the testator by his first marriage, are the contestants.

Mr. Richards married for the second time in 1913 when sixty-one years of age, and his bride was twenty-one. She receives the bulk of the estate. Richards died in August, 1917.

Charge Theft of Tires

BOYS CONFESS TO 14 BREAKS

Two, Aged 14, Help Police Recover Quantity of Stolen Property

Through the arrest of two small boys, who the police say have confessed to fourteen breaks, a series of robberies in East Cambridge and Cambridgeport is believed to have been stopped.

The boys are Charles Francis and Edward Slagmiskis, both fourteen years old and residents of Berkshire street, East Cambridge. The police say they assisted in the recovery of a quantity of stolen goods. They were arraigned in the East Cambridge District Court today and held for the Juvenile session.

Among the many articles said to have been stolen from residences by the boys were three bicycles, a quantity of cigars, small amounts of money and jewelry.

Assessed $50 in court

Burton O. Wetmore, a Boston theatrical appliances dealer, was fined $50 in the Waltham court today for renting a moving picture machine to the Perkins Institute for the Blind at Watertown that had not been inspected.

CHARGES U. S. AGENTS AID AUTO THIEVES

Charges that United States custom officials at the American-Canadian border dispose of automobiles that are stolen in Boston and vicinity were made today in the Bingham court by Fred Hines of Jackman, Me., who was arraigned for the larceny of an automobile belonging to Max Stonberg.

Hines told Judge Kelly that he turned the Stonberg car over to customs officers, and then was told by them that if he could procure another car of a certain make they would pay him $600 for it. An investigation of his charges are being made.

On the larceny charge he was held in $1,000 bonds for the Grand Jury.

PROBING QUEER $30,000 FIRE IN MANCHESTER, N. H.

Manchester, N. H., May 28.—An investigation is being conducted by Chief French and other fire department officials of a fire on the premises of the Outlet Clothing Store, No. 37 Amherst street.

The damage is estimated at $30,000, largely to stock in trade. Phillips Godfrey, head of the firm, claims a total loss of stock. This is at variance with the assertions of fire department officials, who declare that some of the stock had been removed from the building, which is to be torn down to make way for a theatre, work upon which is to start Monday.

Fall River Prices Are Lowest in U. S.

Fall River, May 28.—This city is the best in the country for that sorely-abused individual, the Ultimate Consumer.

It is the worst for rent gougers, food hoarders and price-boosters and profiteers of all sorts.

In plain English, and by the figures, Fall River is the cheapest city to live in in the whole United States.

These facts are brought out in the new report of the United States Department of Labor on the cost of living.

It shows that Fall River's increase in living costs was only one per cent. during the month ending on April 15. In the same period Boston prices went up six per cent., and some cities in the West experienced an eight per cent. raise.

DUE TO THRIFT.

Fall River was as surprised as the rest of the country to wake up and find itself famous as the mecca of the man who pays the bills.

But loyal Fall Riverites are not at a loss for an explanation. They say it is due to the thrift of the citizens of French and Portuguese descent or birth, and the common sense way in which community problems are handled.

"It is a surprise to me," said Mayor James H. Kay, "but it seems to initiate that Fall River merchants and the people in general are thrifty and not so extravagant as in some cities."

Charles M. Ketchum, manager of the local Chamber of Commerce, presented pertinent statistics and pictured Fall River as the means for all peoples downtrodden by food sealpers, rent barons and profiteers in general. Said Mr. Ketchum:

"To properly understand why Fall River leads the country, it is necessary to know the class of people who live here. We have little or no organization to keep prices down, no rent committee, etc. I believe the mayor is forming a rent committee now.

"Of the 35,000 mill workers, approximately half are French and Portuguese, native and descent. Everybody knows that the French and Portuguese are frugal people.

WANT TO OWN HOMES.

"It is the height of our mill workers' ambition to own their own homes. They are not inclined to spend money recklessly and force prices up. I should say that fully eighty per cent. of the homes here are owned by the occupants. Rents are up about twenty per cent. over 1919 and the largest jump has taken place in the last year.

"The real estate owners' association sent out word that a horizontal twenty per cent. raise in rents was warranted by increased cost of maintenance, etc., and many landlords attempted to put such an increase in effect. Of course, they have had raises of as high as forty per cent. but they have been very few. The housing situation is getting worse now because there has not been much building on account of the high cost of materials and labor."

WAGES UP 100 P. C.

C. E. Smith, secretary of the Fall River Cotton Manufacturers' Association, said that wages in the approximately 115 mills here have increased 103 per cent. since January, 1916, including the 15 per cent. increase, which becomes effective June 1. He said:

"It is true that the cotton mills here were never so prosperous as today and they have been sharing profits with labor. Wages have been boosted every six months and it is generally known that mill wages have more than kept pace with the cost of living in Fall River. The last 15 per cent. was not granted so much to meet the cost of living, but to share profits."

James Tansey, president of the Fall River Textile Council, said he could not see any difference in the cost of living here as compared with other cities; that if a comparison were made it should cover more than a single month. He asserted that mill operatives should benefit by the unusually strong position of the cotton goods trade.

There has been no general slashing of prices in the department stores as in other cities, according to the head of one of the largest stores in the city. He admitted that there has been some selling of seasonable goods, but that was due to weather conditions.

J. T. Swift, leading banker and a director of the Chamber of Commerce, said that savings in Fall River have been increasing rapidly, indicating the thrift of the people. He said that one group of four savings banks has had a gain of $3,500,000 in the last year, a trust company organized within a year has savings deposits of some $750,000, and in addition the national banks have savings departments and the people have bought heavily in Liberty Bonds and other investment securities.

HUSBAND FILES SUIT OF MARY CASEY THORNE

New York, May 28.—Joel Wolf Thorne, son of the late Samuel Thorne, banker, has received permission in the Supreme Court to file a supplemental answer in the suit for separation brought against him by Mary Casey Thorne. The couple have been in domestic litigation for several years. The wife was a member of a family in humble circumstances and was known as "The Belle of Third Avenue." They were married in 1911 and their life together was turbulent. In affidavits Thorne accuses his wife of inebriety and of misconduct, naming Raymond B. Wilson.

ADMITS ROBBING THREE HULL HOMES

Hingham, May 28.—Karl Leaf of Quincy, an electrician and moving picture operator, was arraigned in the Hingham Court today on three charges of breaking and entering. It is charged that he removed $1,500 of goods from the summer cottages of John A. Kennedy of Boston, Mrs. E. L. Moody of Brookline, and Patrick Mahoney of New York city.

All the cottages are located at Bayside. Hull, where Leaf has been employed for the past two years. He admitted the breaks and is said to have implicated two other men.

The case was continued to June 23, when it will be heard at Abington.

G. O. P. HAS 130 CONTESTS

Preliminary Work of National Convention at Chicago Is to Begin at Once

By International News Service.

Chicago, May 28.—A veritable mountain of work is piling up for the Republican convention to clear away before the real business of nominating a presidential candidate can be undertaken.

Clarence B. Miller, secretary of the national committee, is expected to arrive here today to get things started.

The committee on credentials, each of delegates [illegible] few States missing, save the [illegible] have been filed. Unofficial estimates place the number as high as 140.

Most of the contests are from southern States. In addition there are forty-seven seats involving fractional votes, which the committee will have to rule on in view of the recent decision to do away with the fractional voting system.

Followers of the Lowden camp, that hero's delegation of twenty-six votes rose up behind the Illinois Governor, were strengthened today by National Committeeman Hert.

The investigation of campaign expenditures at Washington continued to hold the interest of "Presidential row." The Wood managers declared they could point with pride" to the general position in this matter.

"We have carried out the spirit of the primary laws," they said.

The law provides that the voter shall take part in the nomination of a candidate. No voter can do this intelligently unless he is informed of the record and qualifications of the candidate. There are millions of voters.

Senator Hiram W. Johnson will be placed in nomination by Charles S. Wheeler, a San Francisco attorney, it was announced today by the Senator's son. Wheeler is a close friend of the Senator.

Allied together with the show is Daisy Hanneford who gives zest to her posing by skilfully juggling knives, plates and even a lighted lamp while her horse is racing around the ring.

Charms Public With Her Big Black Eyes

JULIETTE DAY.

By FRED J. McISAAC.

The lady who is referred to in the title of this story does not like Juliette Day and the thing they are referring to when they say so is her flirting. Miss Day is the very latest word in stage flirts. You would not call her a vampire because she is entirely too nice looking to be a regular vamp, but as a flirt she of the genus she requires attention.

THOSE BIG, DARK EYES.

Juliette Day doesn't care who she uses her big dark eyes upon. When I was introduced she used them on me with such skill I for a though I remembered who I was, which she probably didn't. But it didn't last long to forbush up her memories.

"Yes, indeed," she declared. "I came to see me last year in 'Oh, My Dear.' Don't you remember you wrote about the monkey?

In "Oh, My Dear," Miss Day was an explosive young woman who had a pet monkey. She was very much attached to it and it to her. So much so that it attached itself to her dress with its teeth and left a mark which Miss Day exhibits even now.

"The nasty little thing bit me," said the actress.

"What did you do?"

LIKES PLAYING DODO.

"Bit it back," she declared. "No I didn't, but the show closed just then and as the monk was the property of the production I said goodby to it with alacrity."

"How do you like playing Dodo?"

"Oh she is very sweet, and a little bit wicked, but the part does not to think she is a picture. I am an idea myself that I have husband troubles are not over when he gives her at the fina. curtain. I think some girls will fret until they are grandmothers, and only stop then for lack of material."

With So Much Talk Being Made

And so much printer's ink spilled about all these left-over "war baby" suits

Some people may have gained the impression that the manufacturers have been so busy turning out stuff to sell at ostensible price reductions that they haven't had time to make up any really good merchandise that's attractive in appearance, reliable in quality and desirable in every way.

Lower clothing prices make sweet music in the public ear, but investigation too often reveals that these so-called reductions apply to goods that few self-respecting men would care to buy—much less to wear—at any price at all.

But we have a different story to tell—not one of price alone, but of good merchandise, the best there is, at prices that are remarkably moderate in view of the vast increase in the cost of labor and materials in men's clothes.

FITZSIMMONS AND JOSEPHS ARE FIT FOR BOUT

FEATHERWEIGHTS CLASH IN C. A. C. RING TONIGHT

By JACK CONWAY

Bobby Josephs, New England featherweight champion, and Billy Fitzsimmons of Chelsea are fit for their twelve-round title battle which will be staged at the Commercial A. C. tonight. Josephs arrived in Boston early this afternoon from Bedford, where he trained for the contest.

Fitzsimmons did his training in Chelsea and declares that he is fit to travel the full distance at a torrid clip. Both boys stated they were below 126 pounds, which is the weight for the match.

It was expected that Fitzsimmons would be the post weight favorite, as West End and Young Wilson [illegible] the betting. The latter was [illegible] proved he is one of the best featherweights in the East when he [illegible] Joe Lynch of New York at Mechanics a couple of weeks ago. It was awarded the decision but many of the fans were of the opinion that Fitzsimmons was entitled to the [illegible]

Chelsea youth is a fast, clever boxer and a stiff puncher. Josephs [illegible] believes that his aggressive fighting will gain for him the [illegible]

Henry Vager was originally to be set to meet Jackie. The French Pack was stricken with appendicitis [illegible] was necessary for Chidio Jack McNeil of South Boston was signed to meet Brown. The Philadelphia has engaged in some of his best battles in Boston rings. He first copped his fame when he stopped Jimmy Mooney of Newton in ten rounds at the Armory A. A. He later fought a draw with Mooney, stopped Harley Gergin and won on fouls from Battling Reddy and South Boston Tim Richmond. The Chelsea man is manager of Brown, believes his protege will be the next world's featherweight champion. Jasmian has so much confidence in Brown that he did not hesitate a minute when offered the match with Jackie.

Harry (Kid) Brown Will Give Jacks Real Test

Bobby Josephs, New England featherweight champion, will give the acid test of his ring ability in the next [illegible] at the Dudley street open air show at [illegible] afternoon when [illegible] Harry (Kid) Brown [illegible] will be a real battle, [illegible] a two-round [illegible] Brown [illegible] Jackie.

Mel Coogan to Box Pal Moran

Mel Coogan of Newark will oppose Pal Moran of New Orleans in another twelve-round affair. Coogan, who is now under the management of Joe Woodman, has been boxing at a terrific pace. At Detroit a couple of weeks ago he was credited with outpointing Johnny Dundee.

The other twelve round whirl will find Johnny Dundee opposing Jack Lawlor. These boys have already met once. The tussle was staged at Savannah and Lawlor was credited with having the better of the going. Lawlor also has a referee's decision to his credit over Bernie Valdez and scored a knockdown in a contest with Willie Jackson. It looks as though Dundee is in for a busy afternoon.

Paddy Flynn Signs to Box Frankie Schoell

The Armory A. A. has signed Paddy Flynn, Everett welterweight, to meet Frankie Schoell of Buffalo in the feature bout of twelve rounds at its show at the Grand Opera House next Tuesday night. Flynn has come to the front at a lively clip and believes he will be able to upset Schoell. The latter is well known here as a result of his victories over Young Blades and Cleveland Johnny Downes and his draw with Pete Hartley.

Orlando Again Beaten by "Strangler" Lewis

"Strangler" Lewis again defeated Sampson Orlando, the young Swedish light heavyweight at Tuohey's Grand Opera House tourney in a repetition of their sensational bout of several weeks ago at Mechanics. Although beaten in two straight falls, Orlando again showed all the earmarks of a coming champion. Weighing only 195 pounds against the 215-pound New Yorker, and possessing an experience of only two and one-half years, a phenomenal mat work against the more than ten of his opponent, the young Swede nevertheless had a wide edge on scoring points and an number units to a headlock seat pass, fed from Lewis's waist for a fall in 1 hour 14 minutes 30 seconds.

Lewis had developed a better cradle hold and, with his head locked under Orlando's left arm, was able to [illegible] a score of times a fast fifteen minute draw.

The "Strangler" was repeatedly forced to call on his wonderful reserve strength to avoid falls, particularly on two occasions when pinned with a body scissors and wrist lock.

Against the dearly headlock Orlando rereseled his study of the game by introducing a new counter. In their Mechanics bout the Swede showed a counter to the upright headlock by a handhold that turned Lewis over for a flop. In this bout he showed a counter from the mat that consisted of simply working close to Lewis' body and with arms reversed reaching under the arm for the chin and forcing Lewis backward to a break.

The headlock that got Orlando was combined with a jar on the mat that practically knocked him. He was an easy victim for the second fall as a result.

A crowded house saw the tourney. In the preliminaries Pete Hurrick was wrenched his ankle in a bout with Arthur Davis the wrestling instructor, and resigned the fans in twenty minutes, thirty seconds. Hendricksen had weight and strength on Davis but was weakening rapidly when Bolanis and Billy Kelly wrestled [illegible]

INTERCOLLEGIATES GIVE LINE ON U. S. OLYMPIC MEN

By CHARLES E. PARKER.

Philadelphia, May 29.—Uncle Sam is gaining his first really accurate information on the probable strength of his Olympic track team here at Franklin Field today, where more than 1,000 college stars are participating in the preliminary heats and qualifying rounds of the track and field events of the annual Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. meet.

The athletes entered in this great meet have been drawn not only from the East and South but from the Far West as well, and comprise as fine a field of performers as ever competed in such an event. Several of their number already have equalled world's records and before the final event is settled it seems highly probable that new world's records will be set in at least one or two of the events.

Entrants Seemingly Evenly Matched

But the interesting features of this year's clash of college stars comes from the fact that in the majority of events, the entrants are most evenly matched, and from the situation that finds at least two colleges and possibly more almost equally balanced in possible points.

Princeton and Pennsylvania are the two that seem booked for a rare battle for first honors, but so strong are the teams of Stanford, California, Dartmouth, Yale, Cornell, that should there be any falling down on the part of Penny and Tiger stars any one of the five rivals would make a strong bid for the title.

The apparent strength of the teams of Princeton and Pennsylvania lies in their possession of strong secondary athletes as well as fine arrays of first and second-place scorers, and because Princeton seems a trifle better supplied with such men the Tiger has been made a slight favorite. However, this seeming advantage may be overcome by the greater familiarity of Penny's men with the Franklin Field track. The latter is one of the factors Penn fans are counting upon.

Today's preliminary events should serve to establish the Far Western performers in their proper places. Several writers of track sport have shown a tendency to smile at the marks credited to the men in their dual meets in California. But four years ago Stanford and California sent abbreviated track teams to the intercollegiate meet at the Stadium and, in addition to setting two new intercollegiate records, each of the teams corralled larger totals of points than did all but two Eastern colleges, and finished in a tie for third place.

Western Marks Are the Better

The dual meet marks of the Westerners competing today surpass those of Eastern athletes in the 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash, broad jump, high jump and hammer throw, while a tie exists in the rival low hurdle marks. The work of the men credited with these records is being closely watched today.

The Olympic phase of the meet is apparent when consideration is given the make-up of former American Olympic teams. In the past fully two-thirds of the Olympic team membership has been made up of college athletes, and this year the percentage of college men may be greater.

Extra Pants Free With Blue Serge Suit to Order $19.75

These goods will be found right inside my door with a big card on which is written "This is the goods I make Suit and Extra Trousers to order for $19.75," and that sign has caused more discussion in the tailoring and clothing trade than anything that has been issued this season. I had fifty pieces at the start of the sale and I don't believe I will have an inch by the last of next week, so I advise my old customers to get in early. I will make this serge to your measure whether you are a small dwarf or a giant in stature.

Genuine Blue Serge Suit to Order $19.75
Including an Extra Pair of Trousers

The big business of this week has reduced the fifty pieces of wool worsted bought from M. Axelrod & Sons, 79 Chauncy St., Boston. These goods were sold to me as "seconds," but in my own mind I am satisfied that they were "firsts," that the mill reduced the price on them in order to dispose of excess merchandise. These are all dark, staple colorings, and I personally guarantee them all-wool worsteds.

I offer you what I consider $50 value.

Suit to Your Measure $23.75

THE YOUNG DIANA

Story of Tense Mystery in Which Heroine Holds Key to Youth

By Marie Cozelli

"O[illegible] should not be more if she were not [illegible] seem dead!" He made a gesture of impatience. Tut, tut! If you will persist—" Natural[illegible] will persist!" she said [illegible] her delicate [illegible] her head and [illegible] "Just [illegible] Diana! I [illegible] you're such a seeing [illegible] she—the only [illegible] my story [illegible] recognize me now. But I [illegible] obstinacy, or [illegible] Diana!"

Mr. May [illegible] me May, with [illegible]

Was interrupted Diana. "And [illegible] here?"

Mr. May gave a groan of utter despair

"No use—no use" he said. "One might as well argue with the wind as with one of these mentally obsessed persons! Perfectly hopeless! —hopeless—"

Diana sprang off her sofa and stood erect, confronting him.

"See here!" she said. "When I lived at home with you, sacrificing all my time to you and my mother, and only thinking of my duty to you both, you found me 'the child who.' Why? Merely because I was growing old. You never thought there was any creative in dropping me for a fault which seems common to all nature. You never cared to consider that you yourself were growing old—no, for you still seek to play the juvenile and the amorous! What you men do, older legitimate in your own sex, you judge ridiculous in ours. You look upon me as 'young'—when in very truth I am of the age of the same Diana who as your darling [illegible] wear [illegible] but youth has been given to my 'mature years' in a way which you in your ignorance of all science would never dream of. You, like most men, judge by outward appearances only. The physical, which is personable, attracts you—and you have no belief in the spiritual, which is imperishable. But the spiritual wins'"

Sat Blinking

Mr. May sat winking and blinking under this outburst, which was to him entirely incomprehensible, though he was uncomfortably conscious of the radiance of eyes that played their glances upon him like flames from fiery stars.

"There, there!" he said at last, nervously—resorting to his usual soothing formula—"You are overwrought—a little hysterical—a sudden access of this—the unfortunate mistake, identity trouble. I will come back and talk to you another day—"

"Why should you come back" she demanded "What do you want of me?"

James Polydore was somewhat confused by this straight question. What indeed did he want of her? He was to such a mental coward to formulate the answer, even to himself. She was beautiful, and he wanted to caress her beauty—did he wish, he would have liked to kiss that exquisite mouth, curved like a rose-petal, and run his wrinkled fingers through the warm and lavish gold of the hair that waved over the white brow and small ears like rippling sunshine. He was afflicted by the disease of senile amorousness for all women—but for this one in particular he was ready and eager to go to all lengths of ridiculous foolishness possible to an old man in love, if he could only have been sure she was not insane! While he stood hesitating, and twitching his eyelids in the peculiar 'manner' he affected when he had thoughts to conceal, she answered her own question for him.

"You want to make love to me," she said. "As I have told you before, that can't be done. I am your daughter—deny it as you may to the end, nothing can alter the fact. Do you remember the man I was engaged to?—Captain Cleeve?—the 'Honorable' Reginald Cleeve?"

At this he was fairly start[illegible] and he gave a gasp of astonishment

"I remember the man my daughter was engaged to," he said. His name was Cleeve. But he's married—"

"Very much so" and Diana smiled. "But that doesn't prevent his making love to me—and I let him do it! Do see [illegible] tion! And I did, [illegible] her wife any more than he considered me when he married her and threw me over. But he's like you—he doesn't believe [illegible] od Diana [illegible] of course, and Mr. May expanded his chest with a long breath of superior wisdom "I should like to see him and talk about you and your sad condition of mind—"

"No doubt you would, but you won't," said Diana calmly. "I have forbidden him to go near you for the present. He dare not ask any questions about me—till—till I have done with him!"

What a look there was in her eyes! James Polydore shrank under it as though it blinded him

"Dare not" Done with him?" he echoed stupidly.

She laughed, quite sweetly.

"There, poor Pa, do go home! Pay your attentions to my mother's companion, Miss Preston—if she really likes your endearments, why, then, 'crabbed age and youth' may live together! Poor mother! She never found out all your little ways! —some of them she discovered by [illegible] but I [illegible] Well, well I suppose I ought to be as jealous as I am at your age* Too late, too late! Ye cannot enter now!"

Laugh Rang Out

Her laughter rang out again—then approaching him, she laid her hands lightly on his shoulders and kissed him. "There, that's a true daughter's kiss—make the best of it, dear Pa! Go home and be a good, nice, moral man—sit on one side of the fireplace and Ma on the other, and settle down into Darby and Joan—such a nice couple—with a dash of Miss Preston between to keep up your spirits. And don't come back here ever—unless you accept the true position we occupy to father and daughter—the other growing old, and daughter growing young!"

Standing in the centre of the room, with the soft ivory chiffon and lace of her "rest gown" trailing about her like the delicate cirri floating across a summer sky, she appeared like a vision of something altogether beyond mere woman, and as the little groan, unlike any man who had been her father looked at her, a sudden unnameable terror overcame him. His whole shook—his brain reeled—within himself a frightened sense of something supernatural paralyzed his will—and he made for the door like a man stooping in the dark. She threw it open for him with a queenly gesture of dismissal.

"Tell my mother" she said "that her daughter is truly alive, and that she has kissed you—not as the 'old, but as the young Diana! Don't forget"

CHAPTER XXV.

THE chaotic condition of mind into which Mr. Polydore May found himself plunged by what to him was the inexplicable and crazy conduct of the inexplicable and crazy young woman who so obstinately maintained her right to consider herself his daughter, was nothing to the well-nigh raving state of Captain the Honorable Reginald Cleeve, who was faced with a still more intolerable position.

He, when he had first called upon Diana as she had requested him to do, experienced something in the nature of a thunder-clap, when she explained, with much grudgery, albeit cold composure, that her ma[illegible] his former betrothed whom he had "jilted" for a younger and wealthier woman, was dead. He was evidently hypnotized by a remorseless conjurer, he could not have been more stricken in his speechless, incredulous amazement. He sat in a chair opposite to his fair and smiling informant, gazing helplessly, white she, having had tea brought in, prepared him a cup with hospitable ease and condescension.

"When you got the note I left for you at the hotel," she said, "surely you recognized my handwriting?"

ABOUT OUR GOOD FRIEND

Manning

Copyright, 1920, by The Ledger Syndicate

MANNING

VARIATIONS — Mannering, Mainwaring.

RACIAL ORIGIN—Norman French.

It is a peculiarity of the host of names which the invasion of William the Conqueror threw into the English language that an exceptionally large percentage of them take their origins from geographical source.

This is natural and easily understood when the circumstances and conditions under which the Norman conquest took place are considered. The Anglo Saxon population of England, prior to that time, was not more than a very few million, less than a tenth what it is today. England was a land of open countryside and little hamlets. The communities were so small that men needed no family names. Occasionally a man would add a descriptive name or adjective to his title to distinguish him from a neighbor who happened to have the same name, and this was all that was necessary.

But when William gathered his hosts for the invasion of England he gathered them from all Normandy and the natural method of avoiding confusion was to refer to Hugo of "this city," and Rudolph of "such and-such a place." No doubt the Anglo-Saxon army did the same thing. But it was scattered. The Normans were not. They settled themselves in a strange land and kept the ties of mutual defence and intercommunication close. Hence, with the necessity for such distinctions still existing, such names tended to perpetuate themselves.

Manning is simply a shortened form of Mainwaring, which, as pronunciation went in those days, was pretty close to the Mont Guerin of the Normans. Were Robert de Mont Guerin (de" meaning "of") alive today, he might be Bob Mainwaring, Mannering, or Manning.

How to Save Energy

By Loretta C. Lynch

UNDOUBTEDLY the processes of or the household are entitled to a certain amount of time.

It is a fact that the actual preparation of the three meals a day takes more than three hours all told? If you take much more time than that to prepare meals for a family of six time is being wasted unnecessarily. From experience I have noted that the woman who does not plan her meals ahead wastes a great deal of time after she starts.

Suppose the meal is dinner. The woman who does not plan finds that often she has not the material on hand necessary for making up the haphazard meal once it is started.

I watched a friend who has had sufficient training in a business office before she married to realize that all efficiency depends upon careful planning. She worked for one of our great railroads, and when she was running her household I watched her for awhile, and because she asked help in her problem I dared to be frank with her. I asked her if the railroad manager strolled into the office at the last moment and casually remarked, "Guess we'll run a train somewhere today. Wonder where it will be?" what she thought would happen.

"Well, but that is different—that is a railroad and this is only my house" said this little lady. Yet anything worth while is certainly worthy of our best effort, whether it be the digging of a ditch, or the painting of a masterpiece, or making a comfortable, happy home for one ordinary little family.

To begin with then, if home-making is at all worth while, it is worth taking it seriously and giving to it our best thought. And there is no other way than to lay out a plan. Every business must be planned and home-making is no less a business than any other. Get ten slips of paper and use them to plan out a menu of three meals a day for ten consecutive days. Of course you will make mistakes at first. But make a note of these mistakes right on the paper, so that you will not make them again. Perhaps you will find when you begin to work your plan that you are short of the necessary milk. Make a note—"Order two quarts next time."

Besides wasting time by lack of planning the housewife wastes time who cooks too large a variety of dishes. A hard-working young woman who looks years older than she is told me it took her three hours on Sunday morning to prepare and serve breakfast for her three brothers. For "Tom likes popovers and Gerald only eats muffins, while Rob simply must have griddle cakes". She goes to work outside her home each weekday and then wastes the time she should be resting and regaining her spent energy by catering to ridiculously selfish appetites.

Improperly preparing the market list is another cause for wasting time. After the meals are planned go over the food on hand in the pantry and in the refrigerator. Perhaps it might be well to do this at first before writing the plan. Write a market list to cover two or three days, for it is a waste of time to go to market every day except under extraordinary conditions.

CHAPTER XVI.

BARBARA PAIGE gasped.

"John Brandon!" she repeated. "Why—I do not understand!"

Her aunt laughed softly "Of course, I know that your maidenly delicacy moves you to shrink from acknowledging the truth—even to me. Nevertheless, I have used my eyes to little purpose if I have not seen where your heart is. And your uncle sees it, too.

"For a while he was as blind as most men—was actually afraid that I was mistaken in thinking that you and John Brandon cared for each other. Then, when he noticed how you encouraged his dear friend, he recognised the truth."

"The truth?" Barbara echoed, dazed

"Yes, dear, the truth that you cared for John You see, Arthur himself is so fond of that good man that your encouragement of his suit seemed almost too good to be true. Your uncle could hardly believe in such a happy culmination of his hopes.

"You mean, I—I—Arthur wants me to marry Mr Brandon?"

There was a note of incredulity in the questioning voice. It gossed the listener on to more decided speech.

"My child, perhaps it would be well for me to tell you some of the things that Arthur has said on this subject.

"To be frank, he and I never discussed the affair until last evening. Then we spoke plainly to each other—for matters had gone so far between you and Mr. Brandon that it would have been ridiculous reticence if we had pretended to close our eyes to the facts.

"It was then that Arthur agreed with me in word—as he must always have done in sentiment—that John was a man who could be trusted entirely with your happiness. It is evident that your uncle had meditated upon the subject ever since then, for tonight after you came upstairs, he talked out his feelings about it. And he wanted me to tell you how happy he is at your happiness"

"My happiness"

A Very Weak Plea

The older woman ignored the exclamation.

"You know that your uncle is getting on in years, and he wants to be sure that you are well provided for. That is his great desire. He had referred to it often"

"But Mr. Brandon is so much older than I am."

The plea was a weak one, and the girl knew it. Still it was the only one she dared utter. She dare not refer to her own preferences.

"That, too, Arthur has considered," Miss Cynthia went on relentlessly. "He acknowledged that he has had some misgivings on that score—until he stopped to remind himself that John Brandon is some five or six years younger than he and Arthur—and much more vigorous. For awhile your uncle imagined that perhaps you would accept some younger man, but tonight he confessed to me that he would rather have you marry John than a younger man who could not support you.

"He even went so far as to declare that a young man who would marry a girl for money under such conditions was a cad."

Barbara started violently "What young man would do such a thing?" she challenged

"I do not know, my dear. And your uncle did not accuse any one of entertaining such an idea. I hope that nobody whom you would receive as a friend would be capable of such an act. But, my child, you know well enough only prospects to reckon with—do propose to young girls.

"Your uncle's contention is that unless a man has the means to marry a girl at the time that he tells her his love and wishes to gain her in the comfort to which she is accustomed—he has no right to propose to her

A Spirited Protest

"He has dreaded such a suitor for you. It was really pathetic to see his joy this evening when he told me that at last he knew you were safe with the man you have chosen—the man who would have been his choice as well

"Of course, I went on to say—with the generosity that is one of his strongest characteristics—that he would have insisted upon supporting you after your husband had you accepted a person who could not provide for you as we have done. But just think how that would have humiliated you"

"I would never have permitted it," the girl protested.

"No—you think you would not. But your uncle's would have insisted upon it.

"He also would have been most unhappy about you. That would have been a poor return to make him for all his goodness and unselfishness to you, wouldn't it?

"For, after all, the fact that you have any hopes at all—are any one more than an object of charity—is due to Arthur. So I am most thankful that you are to be paying him in the only way you ever can—by marrying the man he would wish you to marry.

"But"—the girl pushed her heavy hair back from her forehead as if it oppressed her—"Mr. Brandon has never told me he loves me—has never asked me to marry him. We are all [illegible] a[illegible] and [illegible] too fast. He may not even care for me"

The Proper Blend.

Have you never noticed the vast difference in poultry dressing? And that you poor housewives should cut that you poor dressings were due to the wrong blending of seasonings? As a young housekeeper I was an entirenovice for seasonings. I loved a dressing myself. Which was all right, but it gave all my family the indigestion. I got so that I couldn't serve roast chicken with a clear conscience. It caused so much misery in its wake

"If I were you," suggested my mother to me, "I would use Bell's Seasonings and rely on an expert's judgment for the blend." I took her advice. We never are troubled by the dressing now.

It's Always Fresh

I have always prized the woman whose coffee is poor now, and Whitehouse Coffee comes to me as fresh as the day it was roasted. For I get my Whitehouse to an almost empty. Just ask your dealer for Whitehouse Coffee. For your coffee must turn out right if you use Whitehouse Coffee.

It Can Be Done

Jane and I used to think that if we wanted charlotte russe for dessert we must order it up from the caterer But that was before we got acquainted with Dr. Price's Delicious Vanilla Ice Cream Powder at home. Take one package Plymouth Rock Coffee Jelly Powder; add one cup boiling water or hot milk; whip up double cream, lady fingers Pour the boiling water on the jelly powder. Stir until dissolved then stir over ice water till it begins to set; fold in the beaten cream; turn into a mould with lady fingers. Garnish with cherries

This is the way to make an excellent charlotte russe. Your dealer will supply you.

A Saltine Sandwich

Now my motherin-law is such a good cook, but absolutely despondent on her cooking. Poor Dear. And the other day it looked to her as if her fine reputation for hospitality were going to be lost forever. You see, she had unexpected company arrive just after lunch was over. "What shall I do?" she asked, in distress.

I'll just run over to my house and bring back some Forster's Peanut Butter and some saltines," I told her "I will make some tasty sandwiches of these, while you put on some cheerios and you wonder that I always keep a half dozen bottles of Uncle John's Maple Syrup on my shelves? Just ask your grocer

The Guarantee Protects You

"If you are not thoroughly convinced that DANIEL WEBSTER FLOUR has produced the best bread you ever baked after you have tried a sufficient sack of it, return the unused portion to the dealer, leave your name with him, and the purchase price will be refunded and cheerfully given by EAGLE ROLLER MILLS CO.

Always the Same

Really, you know as we all agree in our family, there are some excellent reasons why it is more efficient to buy your bread at the store I have tried it out in the home kitchen but I did not like the bother of things keep on sticking to my hands, I fear. Now, it is pretty hard for me to get the time for baking, and I'm always afraid my bread will when cake has its But they get in the Drake's Kitchens. For, at Drake's, the heat is always exactly right, the required temperature, in fact, makes the bread a success. It always has a uniformity in its texture, a consistency; the measuring and the mixing are always the same No wonder Drake's cakes what it is.

Apologies—and Others

I hate apologies. I like the genuine article. "That is why, when my grocer first suggested Uncle John's Syrup, I hesitated.

"I'm a pure maple syrup and pure cane sugar," he said, "why not try a can first?"

I took a bottle home. I never knew but what Uncle John's was all maple That is why I recommended Uncle John's Syrup—because it has that strong maple flavor. There are so many uses for Uncle John's Syrup—and it is good for all children, adults and invalids Do you wonder that I always keep a half dozen bottles of Uncle John's Maple Syrup on my shelves? Just ask your grocer

For the Unexpected Guest

The housewife who knows her Pillsbury knows that Hotcake and Waffle Flour is a standby. Just last week my husband's Uncle John dropped in for lunch bringing an appetite for flat cakes with him. Those cornish cakes I had at your house last time I was here were the best thing I got in Boston," said Uncle John to me. With a sinking heart I knew my own and I had spent at least two hours preparing them. Uncle John wanted flat cakes—time was short, what was I to do? I turned to Pillsbury's and have them" I told Uncle John. And we did—Bottom's Rocks to Fry Fish Cakes—such a success.

For Forty Years

Hathaway's Bread has been made and sold for forty years. Back in the old days when housekeepers, good, bad and indifferent, considered it easy to buy a bread. Hathaway's are then being made, excellent, uniform, creamy, nourishing—in a word, food. That is why I buy Hathaway's Bread with such great confidence And that is why I get it from my grocer, feeling sure that I could not give them a better food had I all the wealth in the world. For it is experience which gave results in bread making and Hathaway was making bread before some of us were born.

Gossom's Fudge

My little daughter dearly loves to make fudge, but she always has such hard luck with it, poor child. That is why I buy her "Quick Mate Fudge." For this contains all the materials and needs but the fun luck with fudge since she used "Gossom's" Why not let your little girl try it too?

Let the Experts Decide

I told my grocer the other day that I didn't see why, until Sprodell came in there was any need for a prejudice against butter substitutes.

"Neither do I" said he "Sprodell's present flavor, though, is due to the experts."

"What! I am sick. I call in the doctor If my business is sick I would call in the expert. Similarly with Sprodell When I tell you Mrs. Housekeeper, that right here about Boston Summer's college uses Sprodell, you have there the approval of the experts Sprodell is what the bakers claim for it to succeed That is why you and I are content with Sprodell and expect has been called in Your [illegible] Sprodell

Here's the Recipe for Buttermilk Gingerbread

Beat well half a cupful of sour cream, one cupful of molasses, one tsp[illegible] of soda dissolved in a cupful of buttermilk, one cupful of sugar, one cupful of molasses, one half a cupful of butter, one tablespoonful each of ginger, cinnamon, cloves and allspice. Add two eggs, well beaten. Bake in a buttered pan about 30 minutes. Buttermilk is considered a health food as well as a delicacy, and it cannot be had too often. However, I always give mine all they will eat and I only use it in cooking myself. Pasteurized Milk Co. A[illegible] is much for me and for all the grownups like it, too, thanks to Brody's Buttermilk.

TWO PLUCKY NEWSBOYS GOING INTO BUSINESS

Two former Boston newies are going to apply the hustle which they acquired selling extras to the automobile accessory and electrical line. Thousands of people who dropped their pennies into the hands of Waldstein and Applebaum, as they cried out the latest news, did not realize they were laying the financial foundation for the Canal Auto Supply Company which is soon to be opened by the couple at No. 85 Canal street.

And the same wide-awake spirit which they manifested in news selling, the two young men say they are going to apply to their latest field of endeavor, and make just as many friends. Both, after the day's work in newspapers was ended, devoted all spare time for years to a study of the new line which they are soon to undertake.

To Shrink a Fleshy, Flabby, Wrinkled Face

The woman whose face has a bloated appearance at times, as well as she whose face is permanently over-fleshy or flabby, should use the simple saxolite solution. This is made by dissolving one ounce of powdered saxolite in one-half pint of witch hazel, ingredients which any druggist can supply. Use as a wash lotion. There is nothing better to reduce the face to a normal appearance. The loose skin shrinks, bagginess and wrinkles are ironed out. Not only does the effect quickly show in one's improved looks, but there is also a comfortable feeling of firmness and toughness.

This treatment is far superior to massage. The latter, as a matter of fact, can afford but temporary relief and its continuance tends to break down the muscular tissue and aggravate the trouble—Advertisement.

ACID STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Acid stomach is a common and exceedingly dangerous condition which irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining and often leads to gastritis, accompanied by dangerous gastric ulcers.

If you suffer after eating from sour stomach, heartburn, gas and painful digestion the trouble probably comes from too much acid, and you should by all means make it a practice to keep this dangerous acid neutralized and your stomach sweet and then your meals will digest in a normal way without pain.

Most artificial digestive aids won't do this. A better plan is to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get a little plain bisurated Magnesia. This will take care of any reliable druggist a few ounces of Powdered Magnesia, (either Bisurated or tablets) and after your meal take two tablets or a teaspoonful of the powder in a little water. You will get instant relief. All the harmful acid in your stomach will be neutralized, and your food will cease to sour and ferment. Gas and pain ordinarily cause you distress can be eaten without fear of you will take a little Bisurated Magnesia after meals. The treatment is harmless and not at all expensive.

Cocoanut Oil Makes a Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.—Advertisement.

WEAKNESS RELIEVED BY "BALMWORT"

Many men and women gain no strength. The least exertion tires them. Dull aches, pains like rheumatism, depression, or "blues," come easily. Ambition and energy are always at low ebb. What is the cause? The cause may vary—but if the Kidneys and Bladder are not doing their work perfectly—you can make a bet—that's where the trouble lies. This lady suffered 12 years: Mrs. E. Shipp, 644 W. 12th St., Oak Park, Ill., writes "Your Balmwort Kidney Tablets certainly have done wonders for me. I have been ailing for 5 years with Kidney and Bladder weakness, but feel like a NEW WOMAN NOW." All druggists sell them.

COOLIDGE BOOM COST $68,375

Washington, May 28.—That $68,375 contributed to boost Governor Coolidge of Massachusetts for President, although he was not a candidate, James R. Reynolds, former secretary of the Republican national committee and manager of the "Coolidge publicity campaign," testified before the Senate sub-committee investigating campaign expenditures.

Of the $68,375, Massachusetts men contributed $60,375.

Reynolds said he managed the presidential campaign of Governor Coolidge "so long as the Governor was a candidate and so long as there was a campaign."

YOU'LL LAUGH! CORNS LIFT OFF

Doesn't hurt at all and costs only few cents

Magic! Just drop a little Freezone on that touchy corn, instantly it stops aching, then you lift the corn off with the fingers.

Try Freezone! Your druggist sells a tiny bottle for a few cents, sufficient to rid your feet of every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and calluses, without one particle of pain, soreness or irritation. Freezone is the discovery of a noted Cincinnati genius.

MEASURES THAT WOULD CURE MOST OF THE TROUBLES AND TENDENCIES WHICH DISTRESS AND ALARM US TODAY

(1) To nominate for the Presidency by direct nomination and to elect by popular vote.
(2) To elect the Cabinet officers and make them responsible to Congress.
(3) To deprive the President of the power of patronage; to put all public offices as nearly as possible under Civil Service, and have appointments made by a committee of Congress.
(4) To elect Federal Judges, including the Supreme Court Justices, by popular vote.
(5) To apply the Initiative, the Referendum and the Recall to national matters.

Members of Congress, Will You Stand for This New Ship Grab?

We often hear vaguely of that "Invisible Government" which controls both the old parties and most political leaders.

But in this sale of the German ships which President Wilson AND LEADERS IN THE REPUBLICAN PARTY are now carrying out we can actually see the smooth, noiseless, secret Invisible Government AT WORK.

It operates just as effectually and irresistibly with one party as the other as soon as it gets control, and it is now in control of some of the leaders of both parties.

President Wilson himself described this power in his campaign book, "The New Freedom," when he said:

"The masters of the Government of the United States are the combined capitalists and manufacturers of the United States. It is written over every intimate page of the records of Congress; it is written all through the history of conferences at the White House."

His defiance during his first term of the so-called "Money Power," his opposition to the "self-appointed trustees of wealth who secretly administered the laws of the country to enrich themselves," won for Mr. Wilson the confidence and support of the West and thus secured his re-election.

Four months after he became President, Mr. Wilson, in a special message to Congress, urged a GOVERNMENT-OWNED merchant marine. He called attention to the fact that our foreign commerce, carried in American ships, once ninety per cent., had so declined that only eight per cent. was now carried under the American flag. We were dependent upon foreign shipping agencies.

The President declared that American enterprise, unexcelled in dealing with other problems, had proved itself incapable in this. Every enterprise breathing life, conquest or profit on the seas in which Americans engaged, operated under foreign flags, paid tribute to foreign insurance companies, and was subordinate to foreign control of ocean traffic.

The most conspicuous of these pseudo-American concerns, operating under the British flag, was the International Mercantile Marine, organized in 1902 by J. P. Morgan.

Nominally an American line, this company has never been patriotic in principle, purpose or practice. It was organized as a speculative holding company, always to be subordinate to British shipping interests and British control.

Its articles of agreement contained this explicit provision, amazing to any patriotic American:

The British vessels shall remain British not merely nominally, but in reality. A majority of the directors of the English subsidiary companies shall be of British nationality, the vessels shall continue to fly the British flag, their officers shall be British, and a reasonable part of their crews shall be drawn from the same nation.

The war came. It gave President Wilson the American-owned merchant marine he had asked for. There came into the possession of President Wilson the finest fleet of passenger and freight ships in the world.

The twenty-nine ships in the former German fleet included the largest ship in the world, the 54,000-ton Vaterland; the finest passenger ship of the North German Lloyd, the 25,000-ton Kronprinzessin Cecilie; the 25,000-ton George Washington (the Presidential ship); the 22,000-ton Amerika; the 19,000-ton Kaiser Wilhelm II., and twenty-three others.

As soon as the business of transporting our troops was finished, these splendid ships, which had been operated with great success by our naval officers during the war, were ordered by President Wilson to be sold for about ONE-QUARTER their value to the very syndicate, organized by the Morgans and dominated by British directors, whose subservience to foreign interests President Wilson had exposed in his special message to Congress, asking for a Government-owned merchant marine in 1914.

The sale was arranged secretly. The terms were not divulged until everything had been settled by private negotiation. There was to be a mock auction sale.

The price was to be $28,000,000 for twenty-nine great ships—a fleet that had been officially appraised by Major John Devereux York, naval architect of the Government Shipping Board, as worth $215,000,000. The Wall Street syndicate was to have twenty years in which to pay for the ships.

The official, appointed by President Wilson, who nominally negotiated this wanton sacrifice of public property was John Barton Payne, a corporation lawyer, attorney for thirty-five railroads in which the Morgans (organizers of the Mercantile Marine syndicate) are also the dominating financial power.

This deal was arrested by the suit of William Randolph Hearst, as an American and a taxpayer, in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. Mr. Hearst showed the court that Mr. Payne, a chairman of the United States Shipping Board, had no power under the law to sell the ships.

Summoned before the Senate Commerce Committee, Chairman Payne said that President Wilson had approved the sale in writing. When asked what guarantee he had secured that the ships would not pass under a foreign flag, he said that he "knew no way to prevent it." He thought they would probably be operated more successfully under British register. They would also then belong to the Royal Naval Reserve.

By his defence of Mr. Hearst's suit, by his motion to dismiss, Chairman Payne admitted the charge that the former German ships were worth a sum in excess of one hundred millions; that he had agreed to sell the ships at a grossly inadequate price; and that if Mr. Hearst's petition was not granted by the Court and the sale forbidden, a gross waste of the property of the people of the United States must necessarily ensue. Chairman Payne's sole defence was that Mr. Hearst had no right as a taxpayer to sue the Government.

The Supreme Court of the District granted, first, a temporary injunction forbidding the sale, and after full hearing MADE THE INJUNCTION PERMANENT. The Court decreed and adjudged that Chairman Payne had no right under the law to sell the ships; that not even President Wilson possessed the right to sell the ships.

The Court declared that Mr. Hearst's suit was not against the Government of the United States, but against a public official doing an illegal act. A precedent in an analogous case before the Supreme Court of the United States established the fact that when the chairman of the Shipping Board, or even the President of the United States, attempted to do an illegal act "HE CEASED TO BE AN OFFICER OF THE GOVERNMENT AND BECAME A PRIVATE WRONGDOER."

The decree of the Supreme Court did not become final, however, before the Commerce Committee of the Senate had passed a resolution requesting the chairman of the United States Shipping Board not to make any disposition of the ships until Congress expressly authorized it.

The Commerce Committee of the Senate is controlled by the Republicans. A large majority of its members, when polled, declared themselves strongly opposed to the proposed sale of the German fleet.

Secretary of War Baker, formerly closer to President Wilson than any other Cabinet officer, was not let into the secret, and is, therefore, quite unable to understand the power of "Invisible Government" which has converted the President of the United States and a majority of the Commerce Committee of the Republican United States Senate. Secretary Baker less than a month ago wrote to Chairman Payne, as follows:

Press dispatches seem to indicate the intention on the part of your Board to include in the sale of vessels some of the ex-German vessels released by the War Department to the Shipping Board and assigned to the Army Transport Reserve.

No assurance has been given up to date that the ex-German passenger vessels now forming the Army Transport Reserve will be exempted from the proposed sale.

In view of the fact that the War Department has expended millions of dollars for repairing and outfitting all of these vessels and has available at this time complete plans, specifications and equipment for utilizing these vessels in case of an emergency, I request that no action be taken looking to the sale of any of these vessels forming the Army Transport Reserve until this matter has been presented to the President.

The same Invisible Power that changed the mind of President Wilson as to these ships has now changed a majority of the controlling committee of the Republican Senate.

That committee, after months of deliberation, reported some weeks ago a bill providing for the future disposition, control or operation of the ships built by the Government during the war under an appropriation of Congress amounting to more than three and one-half billion dollars.

Since the bill was reported to the Senate, debated and passed, a new paragraph has been added expressly authorizing and DIRECTING the sale of the German ships, the finest fleet in the world, under the secret bargain and agreement made by a Democratic administration with the chief private Money Power in the United States.

We ask very earnestly whether any sullen threat of a red anarchist or any misrepresentation by a Socialist of the secret power of financial syndicates over the Government of the United States could be as shocking to the moral sentiment of the nation as this proof of the Invisible Rule of Money over the policies of the United States Government?

IT WAS so small.
WHEN THEY took it in.
THAT I feel quite sure.
IT COULD never recall.
THE FEW short weeks.
THAT IT had lived.
WITH ITS two or three sisters.
AND ITS two or three brothers.
AND HAD struggled with them.
WITH ITS eyes still closed.
IN ITS search for food.
AND FINDING it.
HAD TAKEN its fill.
AND THEN had slept.
IN THE warmth that came.
FROM THE mother cat.
AND ANYWAY.
IT WAS very young.
WHEN SOMEONE came.
AND IT went away.
TO A brand new home.
AND THERE it lived.
AND IT had its food.
AND IT had its bed.
AND IT didn't know.
THERE WAS any place else.
IN THE whole wide world.
UNTIL ONE day.
WHEN STRANGE men came.
AND THINGS were packed.
AND CARRIED away.
AND THE floors were bare.
AND THE walls were bare.
AND OUT in the hall.
WHEN THE door was closed.
WHEN THEY went away.
AND IT found the stair.
AND AFTER a while.
FROM THE lobby floor.
IT SAW the light
THROUGH THE big front door.
AND IT went outside.

AND LATER on.
WHEN IT was dark.
AND HUNGER came.
IT WAS back again.
AND THE door was closed.
AND WEEKS have passed.
AND IT'S still out of doors.
AND IT'S just a tramp.
AND HUNGER comes.
AND IT can't find food.
AND IT'S very thin.
AN IT isn't clean.
LIKE IT used to be.
AND IT'S only one.
OF ALL the cats.
THAT HEARTLESS folk.
TURN OUT of doors.
WHEN THEY move away.
AND I'D like to believe.
AND I do believe.
THAT THERE is a law.
THAT PAYS in full.
FOR HEARTLESSNESS.

I THANK you.

LAUGHED AT FOR LACK OF ANY BEAUX

By Winifred Black

SWEET SIXTEEN ought to be as happy as a lark—but she isn't.

She's miserable. So miserable that sometimes she thinks she would like to die.

This girl has pretty brown hair and nice, soft, blue eyes and dimples—she is very intelligent, much more intelligent than the rest of the persons in her family.

She goes out now and then with girls of her own age and has a lovely time, but her parents and her elder sisters make fun of her because she doesn't have any beaux. They say she's stupid and dull and old-fashioned and doesn't know what life is, and every time she goes out with the other girls and comes home and tells about it her father asks:

"Weren't there any young fellows along?" and her mother says: "Well, you're the funniest girl I ever saw. When I was your age I had a dozen strings to my bow."

And then they all laugh, and Sweet Sixteen feels "put upon" and neglected and out of it, and she wonders if she's unattractive and totally uninteresting.

If I were you, Sweet Sixteen, I wouldn't pay any attention to what any of them say. I'd laugh and be good-natured, but I'd hold on to my own sensible, discreet and admirable way, and in a year or so they'll be used to you, and some day you will astonish them all either by marrying the very finest man you know who has intuition enough to understand and appreciate you or by going out into the world and making a fine, noble, self-sustaining, self-respecting woman of importance of yourself.

And when that time comes your mother will look at your father and say:

"Who would have believed it? Our ugly duckling has turned out to be a swan."

And your father will look at your mother and say:

"You never understood her, did you?" as if he had understood you all along, and he will really think that he did, poor man.

To the Editor

Publish Rollcalls

Editor Boston American:

I noticed in your paper a copy of the rollcall showing how the House of Representatives voted on the Eminent Domain bill. It is to be regretted that you have not enough space in the American to publish like information on all the important legislation that comes before the General Court. It is also too bad that when a good bill is "whispered to death" and less than thirty stand for a rollcall that the names of those who stand for the people and are willin, to go on record are not published. I wish you would advocate a change in the House rules, so that when less than thirty, the required number, stand for a call of the roll the names of those who stood should be printed in the Journal of the House upon the request of one of the members who stands.

The above program would bring the government in closer touch with the people, and the publicity would remove a lot of discontent from among them and incidently remove a lot of mis-representatives. The Boston American is the common people's Bible. I am confident that the above information would have a most beneficial effect.

ROBERT E. BIGNEY,
Representative 10th Suffolk Dist.

Big Pay at Home

Editor Boston American:

Here is a conversation which was overheard on a car a few days ago, between two young men: "We sure did have a graft in that shipyard during the war." "Yes, some of us made as high as $75 a week, by laying off Saturdays and working Sundays. We got double pay for Sundays."

Now I am not going to pass my opinion on this, but I will say this much. I'd have given most of what I have got to have been within hearing when this conversation took place. And I'll bet dollars to hard-tack those two fellows kicked against their pol-tax this year. OVERSEAS MAN.

IMPORTANT STUDY OF THE AIR OCEAN

By Garrett P. Serviss

I HAVE recently had occasion to notice in certain highly intelligent quarters a singular lack of appreciation of the enormous essential interest, as well as practical importance, of the scientific investigations now going on concerning the nature and laws, the heights and depths, the construction, structure and movements of the ocean of air at whose bottom we human fish dwell. However, indifference quickly gives place to the keenest attention when the purpose and some of the already won achievements of such studies are explained.

The modern meteorologist is not primarily concerned with the weather, or with the climate and the seasons. Those things are to him secondary results. His object is to understand, as fully as possible, the atmosphere as a whole.

From Water to Air

The progress of life on the earth appears to have been from the water to the air. The earliest creatures were aquatic or marine. High nervous organization began among the land creatures, the air-breathers. It is doubtful if any animal whose life was confined to the water could ever have been developed to a state of high intelligence. The road to man lay necessarily through the kingdom of the air.

The explorations by unmanned balloons carrying self-recording instruments, and so constructed that after a time they will return to earth with their automatic writings; the projected extension of such explorations to the very utmost limits of the atmosphere by means of a new form of rockets, and the bold exploits of sky-piercing air pilots in their aeroplanes, are all helping to make known very strange facts about the azure shell that divides the earth on every side from the black vacuity of open space.

Thermal Zone

There, for instance, is the curious "stratosphere," or "thermal zone," about seven miles above the earth, where the temperature of the air, instead of continuing to decrease, remains stationary, or even increases. At an enormous height in the atmosphere there is supposed to be a layer of radio-active dust which probably plays a part in the aurora borealis and its accompanying magnetic storms.

There may even be something which interrupts the electric waves that are employed in wireless telegraphy and prevents their free passage out into space, and because of which the problem of communication by electric signal with Mars or Venus may prove to be insoluble—at least with our present means.

STENOGRAPHERS AND SILK ATTIRE

Young working woman, do you wear such expensive and easily-soiled clothes that it is impossible for you to forget you must protect them, thus causing you to be less useful in your position?

How much time do you lose your employer every week adjusting and arranging your clothing so that you may keep it immaculate while you work?

If you have a certain job to do, don't you approach it in such a way that you are thinking more of protecting your cuffs or your silk waist than of doing the work?

If so, you are not a full-value employe.

Then your shoes pinch your feet and make you so uncomfortable that you have your mind on that more than on your work.

And to dress as well as you wish you spend a lot of time thinking and planning your wardrobe, and thinking and planning to meet the expense of it.

More and harder thought to what you have on your back than to the performance of the work which enables you to get your bread and butter, eh?
